

PRESS RELEASE: Investors Trust expands its S&P 500 Index family of products to include 10 and 20 year plans

Investors Trust (“ITA”) is proud to respond to the demands of the market by introducing a newly revamped family of S&P 500 Index products to its product platform. After diligent research and market evaluations, ITA has decided to expand its S&P 500 Index product offering to include 10 and 20 year plans, along with the current 15 year plan. These new products provide more flexibility and greater opportunities to a wider audience of international investors.

“We are constantly listening and looking for ways to better serve international investors by providing the best products and services available on the market. And, with the expansion of our S&P 500 Index products, we believe that we have the ideal solutions, along with world class support services, to reach a broader range of international investors as well as financial advisors seeking greater opportunities to advance their wealth management business.” said Chief Marketing Officer and Head of Global Distribution at Investors Trust, Ariel Amigo.

Through the ITA platform, investors and financial advisors now have the flexibility to choose an S&P 500 Index product that fits individual needs with 10, 15 and 20 year regular contribution plans available. The new S&P 500 Index family of products provides access to the most important stock index in the world and allows individuals to participate in stock market growth without the downside risk. Investors can have peace of mind knowing they are selecting a plan that’s tailored to their age and has guaranteed principal protection.

At ITA, we believe in providing our investors and financial advisers with efficient tools and optimal solutions to enhance the investment experience and, with the expansion of S&P 500 Index products, investors now have even greater investment opportunities and accessible management features to further support financial success.
