INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

Seeks an attractive long-term rate of return, measured in US dollars, through investment principally in equity securities of companies listed on the world's stock exchanges that the investment adviser considers offer an attractive current dividend yield or the prospect of attractive future dividend yields.

Publication date: 13 August 2010.

On 1 June 2010, Morgan Stanley Investment Inc. appointed Invesco Asset Management Limited as Sub-Adviser to the Global Value Equity Fund.

<sup>1</sup> Launch date of Class I shares was November 1989, Class A shares was February 1997 and Class B shares was April 1997.

<sup>3</sup> Total expenses charged to share class open as at 31 December 2009, calculated net of any fee waivers and expressed as a percentage of average net assets for the twelve month period (or since inception if fund launched within this period).

Please note variances between fund and index performance figures may occur due to the price differences between the time the NAV is calculated and the time of the index close.

This fund received a compensation payment in connection with Prudential Equity Group's settlement with the US SEC relating to market timing charges. The compensation amount has been accounted for by the fund at 31 March 2010. The payment amounted to approximately 0.63% of the fund's AUM.

Risk warnings

Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance and the value of the Shares and income from them may fall as well as rise. On redemption of Shares, an investor may receive back an amount less than the original amount of his investment. The assets of the funds will be in a variety of currencies and therefore movements in the value of currencies may also affect the value of an investor's holdings. Furthermore, the value of Shares may be adversely affected by fluctuations in exchange rates between the investor's reference currencies and the base currencies of the Funds. There are special risk considerations associated with investing in:

- 1) Emerging country securities; including (1) restrictions on foreign investment and on repatriation of capital (2) currency fluctuations, (3) potential price volatility and lesser liquidity of shares, (4) political and economic risks, including the risk of nationalisation or expropriation of assets and the risk of war (5) settlement systems may be less well organised and less developed and (6) debt may not be rated by any internationally recognised credit rating organisation.

There are also varying levels of government supervision and regulation of exchanges, financial institutions and issuers in various countries. In addition, accounting, auditing, financial and other reporting standards are not equivalent to those of more developed countries, and therefore less information may be available than in more developed countries.

- 2) High yield securities; investment in higher yielding securities is speculative as it generally entails increased credit and market risks. Such securities are subject to the risk of an issuer's inability to meet principal and interest payments on the obligations (credit risk) and may be subject to price volatility due to such factors as interest rate sensitivity, market perception of the credit worthiness of the issuer and general market liquidity.
- 3) Securities of small capitalisation companies; these securities involve greater risk than large capitalisation companies and the markets for such securities may be more volatile and less liquid.
- 4) Securities of companies engaged in the real estate industry; including the cyclical nature of real estate values, risks related to general and local economic conditions, overbuilding and increased competition, increases in property taxes and operating expenses, demographic trends and variations in rental income, changes in zonal laws, casualty or condemnation losses, environmental risks, regulatory limitations on rents, changes in neighbourhood values, related party risks, changes in the appeal of properties to tenants, increases in interest rates and other real estate capital market influences. Generally, increases in interest rates will increase the costs of obtaining financing, which could directly and indirectly decrease the value of the relevant Fund.
- 5) Investments in derivative instruments carries certain inherent risks such as the risk of counterparty default. Before investing you should ensure you fully understand these risks. Use of leverage may also magnify losses as well as gains to the extent that leverage is employed.

Please refer to the Prospectus for full disclosure of the individual Fund Investment Objectives.
